

There Is A Song

There is a song of love
Spilling down from heaven's throne
To us on earth
Filling space and time
It grows and grows
Like a fire that melts way the cold

*I feel Your love flowing through me
And the taste is oh so sweet
Giving a fragrance
Like the finest wine
Yours is the greatest song of all
And will stand the test of time*

New songs will rise and fall
Always moving but there'll never be discord
Always building on what's gone before
It is the greatest story ever told

Through all the storms I'll come
I'll keep singing
'til the day you call me home
For I've set my sight on what's to come
Something too wonderful for me
